

Welcome to The Hague

A guide for internationals in The Hague region

"Your journey starts here"

AAN PRINS WILHELM DEN EERSTEN
KONING WILHELM DEN TWEEDEN
TOEGEWYD.

Welcome

“Our beautiful city has a great deal to offer you and your family. I hope you will feel at home here.”

Welcome to The Hague, the international city of peace and justice.

The city houses tens of thousands of people who are working every day to build a more peaceful and just world. Walking through The Hague, you will hear many languages being spoken.

Here, we hope to believe that the wealth of cultures can expand our horizon. With more than 200 international organisations and over 30,000 international students, numerous businesses and start-ups, The Hague is truly a city that sparkles with creativity and (young) talent.

Our beautiful city has a great deal to offer you and your family: a historic centre with good shopping facilities, nice residential areas and plenty of green. Not to mention the sea, the beach and the gorgeous dunes. Those are places I often visit myself in order to relax and to find inspiration. The municipality of The Hague is very keen to help the international community, to help you, in any way it can. The employees at The Hague International Centre will be happy to answer any questions you may have about living and working in The Hague and its surroundings.

I truly hope that you will feel at home here.

Yours sincerely,

Saskia Bruines

Deputy Mayor and Alderman of Education, Economy and International Affairs.

Do you have questions about arriving, settling and living in the Netherlands?

ACCESS provides personalised service via e-mail, telephone, at expat centres or through its helpdesk.

"Having once been newly arrived, the volunteers from ACCESS know what internationals do not yet know, and how to guide you in the settlement process."

What do you need the Immigration and Naturalisation Service (IND) for?

All residence applications of people who wish to live in the Netherlands will be assessed by the IND.

Should you wish to work or study in the Netherlands?

Would you like to become a Dutch citizen? Do not hesitate to contact the IND. For your information, the IND is part of the Ministry of Justice and Security.

"The presence of the IND at The Hague International Centre makes the process of coming to The Hague a lot easier for internationals. With just one appointment you cannot only register and receive a citizen service number, but also collect your residence permit."

Housing

First things first

As the Netherlands is one of the most densely populated countries in Europe, we advise you to start looking for suitable accommodation as soon as possible. Did you know that the Netherlands has 17 million inhabitants and more than 400 people per km²?

There usually is a great demand for houses in the months of August/September and January/February. During those months it can take a little longer to find your perfect house. This is due to the arrival of students, university staff and other internationals whose activities are closely tied in with the academic calendar.

What kind of houses will you encounter?

There are fairly small and compact houses, apartments, but also larger terraced houses. Of course there are more spacious (semi) detached houses as well; on those you will have to spend a little more.

Did you know that Dutch houses are well-insulated with (central) heating? On the other hand air conditioning is still rare in houses. One-bathroom houses are very common in the Netherlands and the Dutch prefer showers over a bath.

Would you prefer to rent an apartment or a house?

You will be pleased to know that there are multiple options for renting a house:

- The first option is public or social housing (for rents lower than €710): this option is suitable for incomes below €42.436 a year (2019). Unfortunately, the waiting list on social housing is estimated at approximately 3 years.
- Free market renting is an option for those who do not qualify for social housing (for rents higher than €710). It usually is a quicker solution than social housing.

The houses are owned by landlords who rent out their properties. They are always responsible for the upkeep. Please note that you might have to apply for an affordable housing permit. You can find information on when you need a permit and all required conditions on the municipal website of The Hague.

- Expat housing: these apartments can usually be rented rather quickly. They are often furnished and very well-maintained. The rent for expat apartments is usually higher than other types of housing, however, you may find the convenience worth the expense.

What are my housing rights?

You will find that the Dutch law has many rules to protect your rights as a tenant. However, you should always be attentive when signing a tenancy agreement. A rental contract should generally include several aspects such as utilities, specific house rules and a start as well as an end date.

Please be careful when you decide to go for your dream house. We advise you never to accept a house which you have not visited before. Please do not make any type of payment either if you are not a 100% sure about the property or landlord. If you have any questions in the field of your housing rights, feel free to visit The Hague International Centre. We will always provide you with the best assistance.

Tip: insist on a 'diplomatic clause' in your rental contract. The addition allows you to break the contract quickly if you have to return to your home country or a new destination.

What steps do you need to take to buy a house?

In order to buy a house, you might need to get a mortgage ('hypotheek'). Getting a mortgage is always based on your income, your savings and the property you have in mind. It is easy to look for available apartments and houses that are currently for sale; there are several independent websites. The choice of property is either freehold ('eigen grond') or leasehold ('erfpacht'). We advise you to meet with a mortgage advisor at your bank or an agency first. This will give you a realistic picture of what you can afford.

Where would you like to live?

- It is important to consider the distance between your home, workplace, your children's school and public transport connections before you decide where you want to live.
- We recommend hiring a real estate agent when renting or buying a house in order to avoid encountering any unknown issues. Please consult our partner section on the website for trusted real estate agents for short-stay, rent and sale.

Education and childcare

Did you know that Dutch education is amongst the best in Europe?

Are you looking for a school for your children?

Especially in The Hague, with its child-friendly environment, you will find great opportunities for bringing up your children. The Hague region offers a wide variety of valued options for your child to attend school. There are for example international schools, foreign national schools, private schools, but also bilingual schools. Please see page 23 for a full list.

Moreover you will encounter plenty of opportunities in the city and its surroundings for life-long learners who aim to study while living and working in The Hague. The Hague University of Applied Sciences and the Leiden University, Campus The Hague offer post-graduate studies, summer schools and various courses. Did you know that the highest concentration of international schools in the Netherlands can be found in The Hague?

Government-funded Dutch international schools

Obviously the school curriculum is often taught in English at international schools. Depending on the school, they follow Dutch rules but they do not offer a Dutch curriculum. Therefore Dutch exams will not be taken either. Please note that the tuition fees of these schools are lower than independent schools.

Which government-funded international schools can be found in The Hague region?

- The European School of The Hague
- The International School of The Hague
- Haagsche Schoolvereniging
- International Waldorf School The Hague
- International School Delft
- Het Rijnlands Lyceum Oestgeest International School

- Het Rijnlands Lyceum Wassenaar International School
- Elckerlyc International School

Independent international schools (private schools)

Did you know that private international schools generally follow the curriculum and award the diplomas of the country of association? These schools are not funded by the Dutch government. They are supervised by an international accreditation organisation.

Many international schools follow the International Baccalaureate (IB) programmes so students can easily transfer to international schools around the world.

Which independent schools will you find in The Hague region?

- The American School of The Hague
- The British School in the Netherlands

Foreign national schools

Foreign national schools are always funded by their associated country, they fall under their educational authority and have a focus on the country's curriculum.

Which foreign national schools can be found in The Hague region?

- Deutsche Internationale Schule
- Le Lycée Français Vincent van Gogh
- Sekolah Indonesia

Are you planning to stay in the Netherlands for a longer period of time?

In that case regular Dutch education for your children might be an option.

You will find that some Dutch schools offer bilingual education and/or have special programmes in place for pupils whose level of Dutch is not yet sufficient.

Tip: please visit the following website for more information about schools in The Hague: scholenwijzer.denhaag.nl (this website is only in Dutch).

Special education international schools

Lighthouse Special Education offers individualised education to children aged 3-13 who are having trouble thriving in international mainstream education. They specialise in complex behavioural and/or developmental problems.

Tip: some schools might have a waiting list for admission.

Day-care centres and preschool

For your youngest children, there will be plenty of English and bilingual day-care centres in The Hague region to choose from. These accept children between the ages of 6 weeks and 4 years. Please note: many of these day-care centres and preschools do have a considerable waiting list.

Preschool

Toddler preschool is a child's first step into the Dutch school system. It is a non-compulsory programme for children aged 2.5 to 4 years old to prepare them for primary school. Toddlers enrolled in preschool will learn intellectual, emotional and educational skills, such as language and counting, social interaction, following directions, playing, sports and music.

After-school-care

After-school-care ('naschoolse opvang') is specifically set up for primary school children. Many primary schools offer joint programmes with local after-school-centres in order to make the daily transition from school to after-school-care as easy as possible for their pupils.

Financial support in taking care of your child

The Dutch government has a financial aid programme for families raising children. This is called 'child benefit' ('kinderbijslag'). You may also be entitled to 'childcare benefit'. This is a separate government contribution towards paying for your children's nursery or after-school-care enrolment. Conditions do apply; please visit our website if you wish to know more about either of these financial aid programmes.

Healthcare

The Dutch healthcare system is known to be among the very best in the world. Many healthcare providers in The Hague cater towards both local and international residents.

Mandatory health insurance

It is mandatory in the Netherlands for every citizen to purchase at least a base level of health insurance. We advise you to get hold of this as soon as possible. Citizens need to take out a health insurance within 4 months of arrival, even if you already have an existing policy that covers your health in the Netherlands.

Privileged persons may be exempt from purchasing Dutch health insurance. Also, students who are in the Netherlands for study purposes only do not have to take out a Dutch health insurance policy. If you need extra medical care, you can take out additional insurances, like dental care, orthodontics, physiotherapy and glasses. Please note that every citizen in the Netherlands has to pay an amount of €385 policy excess.

Tip: children under 18 receive basic coverage free of charge if they are named on the policy of their parents.

Basic insurance coverage

The government determines which healthcare is covered by the basic package. All healthcare insurances offer the same coverage. You are free to choose any health insurer for your basic package. Please note that it is possible to change your insurer once a year by cancelling before 1 January and taking out a new insurance before 1 February. Health insurers are legally obliged to accept anyone for the basic coverage. They have to charge the same amount to all policy holders regardless of their state of health. This is in accordance with the Dutch law.

Tip: there is a national information platform for health insurance called zorgverzekeringslijn.nl. Call +31 (0)88 900 69 60, or visit their English website to ask questions about your health insurance coverage.

Finding a General Practitioner (GP)

A GP ('huisarts') is your first point of contact for healthcare in the Netherlands. Registering with a local practice will be the first thing to do. Any medication that is not available over-the-counter will require a prescription from your GP. You can hand in this prescription at your local pharmacy ('apotheek'). Visit our website for more information on choosing a GP.

Tip: depending on your income and household size you might be eligible for healthcare allowance ('zorgtoeslag'). Find out more on our website.

Receiving emergency care

Your GP can provide you with a referral to a specialist doctor or refer you to hospital if you need expert help. Visiting hospital without a referral should only be done in case of emergency.

In case of urgent health-related issues after office hours, please contact the after-hours medical clinic ('huisartsenpost'). In The Hague, Rijswijk and Leidschendam-Voorburg: please call Smash during evenings and on weekends: +31 (0)70 346 96 69.

Dentist

There are many dental professionals in The Hague who speak English and other foreign languages. We recommend you to have a check-up twice a year. Any problems in between check-ups? Contact your dentist for an extra appointment.

Child health clinics

Did you know that children in the Netherlands always visit the child health clinic ('consultatiebureau') up to the age of 4? Preventative healthcare is their primary goal. Therefore they provide vaccinations free of charge and check the growth and development of your baby or toddler. The Centre for Children and Families ('Centrum Jeugd en Gezin'/'CJG') is a safe haven in The Hague for children, (expectant) parents and their families.

Taxes

National taxes

If you start living and working in the Netherlands, you will also have to contribute to the Dutch tax system. You will find that there are several national taxes, of which the income tax is the most important. The authority responsible for collecting these national taxes is the Dutch Tax Authority ('Belastingdienst'). The Dutch tax year always runs from 1 January to 31 December.

Did you know that there is a 30% ruling tax advantage?

This 30% reimbursement ruling is a tax advantage for highly skilled migrants coming to the Netherlands. It is especially designed to compensate the expenses you have as a foreign employee, due to temporary residence in the Netherlands. These can be travel expenses, additional housing costs, international education and day-to-day expenses. If you meet several conditions, you will not have to pay an income tax on your salary, this amounts up to 30%.

To be eligible for the tax advantage, you must have been recruited for your job whilst residing outside of the Netherlands. Your salary level and your education are taken into account as well. We advise you to ask your employer's HR department for more information.

How do you file your income taxes?

Filing your taxes can be done digitally via the website of the Dutch Tax Authority ('Belastingdienst'). For this you will need a DigiD. DigiD is a mode of digital identification. Read more about DigiD on page 66. For your information, your employer will always withhold an income tax off your salary. In that case you usually do not have to file your taxes.

Do you have sources of income in addition to your salary, such as investments or additional salaries? Or have you received a letter from the Dutch Tax Authorities to file your taxes? Then you are required to file your tax return. Please note: if you did not live in the Netherlands for the entire year, you will not be able to file your taxes digitally. In this case, you will need to use a so-called M-form. Please visit the 'Belastingdienst' website for more information: www.belastingdienst.nl

Local taxes

Municipalities issue various kinds of taxes to their citizens. While particular taxes are a set rule for everybody, such as sewage, waste and water authority taxes, additional taxes should be paid in certain cases. This depends on your living situation. For example: you will have to pay property taxes if you own any property and you will be charged dog taxes if you own a dog.

If you are a diplomat or privileged person you may be eligible for a partial exemption from certain taxes.

About

The Hague

The Hague, the place to be!

Did you know The Hague is also known as:

- The city by the sea: it is the only major Dutch city located at the sea. At just 15 minutes from the historical city centre, you will find no less than 11 kilometres of beach.
- The international city of Peace and Justice: all international organisations and non-governmental organisations reside in the city.
- The royal city: it does not only serve as the government's seat, but also as the Dutch royal family's residence.

In addition, the city practically offers anything you could wish for: fantastic shopping in the city centre, long walks in the dunes, dining on fresh fish along the beach and a drink at a café. You will find your way around town in practically no time. With its family-friendly environment offering great (international) education, The Hague is a great place to start your future.

Popular places to live in The Hague region

You will soon find that there are many neighbourhoods to explore, each with their own charm. The more traditional neighbourhoods for internationals are Geuzen- and Statenkwartier, Wassenaar, Benoordenhout and Archipelbuurt/Willemspark.

If you would rather live in more upcoming neighbourhoods, you should definitely take a look at Zeeheldenkwartier, Regentessekwartier and Vroondaal.

Work life in The Hague

Thousands of people work hard every day in The Hague to tackle complex global challenges. Almost everything in the city is just a stone's throw away: government agencies, embassies, commercial enterprises, knowledge institutions and international organisations, such as the International Court of Justice, International Criminal Court or Europol. It is the place where you can exert influence as well as expand your network readily. For that reason multinationals like Shell, Total, Siemens, Huawei, Worley, KPN, T-Mobile, Aegon and the NN Group find a welcoming business climate in The Hague.

The Hague offers the most diverse international education options of the Netherlands. The Hague is home to private, subsidised and national schools. Tips by locals

- Hofvijver

1

"I like to walk along The Hofvijver to enjoy the historical government buildings, the skyline of The Hague and the beautiful mansions on the Lange Vijverberg. To meet new people I recommend the restaurants in the harbour in Scheveningen for the lively atmosphere; I genuinely believe that food unites!"

By Talal Al Marri's, CEO of Aramco Overseas Company

- Het Plein

3

"The Hague's vibrant and extensive international community offers many options for becoming involved, meeting people and building a community. Especially for the accompanying spouse or partner, our advice is to take advantage of these. ACCESS can help you find the ones best suited to your interests. Let us help you, to help yourself."

By Rawia Liverpool, Coordinator at ACCESS

4

- Museum Voorlinden

"I started as an expat 22 years ago and grown to love this city. My children say it's the best place in the world to grow up. I love the combination of international and Dutch communities and world class culture and the beach. My tip is to take advantage of both, and I can't say enough great things about my two favorite museums: Panorama Mesdag and Voorlinden."

By Jill Wilkinson, Executive Director of The Hague Humanity Hub

- The dunes

5

"The Hague offers a perfect combination of city and nature. Take your time to discover the different neighbourhoods of the city. My favourite is the Zeeheldenkwartier, which has a wide variety of independent cafés and restaurants. You can also ride your bike along the coast to Katwijk. It will take you around an hour and the landscape is worth the effort."

By Paolo Bernasconi, HR Director of the Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons

"Understand the local culture and language by first focusing on what is similar with what you know and move from there. Try to learn a few new words and aspects of the new culture every day and do not be afraid of asking locals about how things are said and done. Everyone likes to talk about their own culture and language."

Currency and daily payments

The Netherlands is part of the European Economic and Monetary Union and as such has the Euro as its currency. Paying by debit card is the norm in the Netherlands. After setting up a Dutch bank account, you will automatically receive a debit card. More and more shops, food service establishments and public transport services have switched to card payments only. Additionally, wireless payments have become increasingly more common; all newly issued debit cards have wireless payment functionality built-in.

Time zones

The Netherlands is located in the Central European Time Zone (CET). This means that we are one hour ahead of Greenwich Mean Time (GMT+1). The Netherlands observes Summer time (Daylight saving time): the clock is adjusted forwards by one hour at the start of spring and adjusted back in autumn.

Seasons and weather

We have four seasons: winter (January – March), spring (April – June), summer (July – September), and autumn (October – December). The Netherlands has a temperate maritime climate. Generally, this means that Dutch winters are normally mild and summers are cool. Average temperatures in winter vary between 2°C and 6°C, and in summer 17°C and 20°C. Rainfall is distributed throughout the year.

The Netherlands is a flat country and as such, breezy conditions are common, especially in coastal areas such as The Hague region.

Emergency and help lines

112

In case of an emergency, you should call 112. By calling 112, you can contact the police, fire department or medical care.

Medical care

If you are not in an emergency, but do need to speak to a medical professional, please contact your General Practitioner (GP) during office hours. However outside office hours, you will need to contact the out-of-hours medical clinic ('huisartsenpost').

In The Hague, Rijswijk and Leidschendam-Voorburg, please call 'SMASH' during evenings and weekends: +31 (0)70 346 96 69

Have you heard the sirens on the first Monday of each month?

If you are new to the Netherlands, you might wonder why you are suddenly surrounded by loud sirens everywhere on the first Monday of the month at noon. This is the national Warning System ('Waarschuwingstelsel'). This system is tested every month with 4200 sirens in order to ensure it works properly in case of emergency, reaching everybody across the country.

The sirens can be operated individually by regional fire departments. They are owned by the Ministry of Internal Affairs.

In case of emergency, you will hear this sound too, even if it is not the first Monday of the month. It is meant as a warning to go inside. Then all citizens are advised to shut all doors and windows and to turn on their television or radio for updates.

Bike

Did you know? There are more bicycles in the Netherlands than there are people: over 22 million bikes versus 17 million citizens.

This is because a bike ('fiets') is an ideal way of getting around the Netherlands' compact cities and towns. Bikes are readily available for purchase or rent all across The Hague region. Visit our website to find out more about cycling rules, advice and where you can learn how to ride a bicycle.

Public transport

The Hague region has an outstanding public transport system. There are over 30 tram and bus lines ready to bring you to wherever you need to go. The Hague region also has several railway stations and is serviced by Fast Ferry and a Randstad Metro line.

We advise you to purchase an 'OV-chipcard'; 'OV' is short for 'Openbaar Vervoer', meaning Public Transport. This transport card can be topped up at stations and other locations all over The Hague region. You can use the same card for all public transport in the Netherlands. Read more on the different kinds of OV-chipcard and how and where to top it up on our website.

Car

Many of The Hague's residents rely on public transport for their daily commute and often do not own a car. However, many families and those who need to travel outside of the city on a regular basis, do own a car. Paid parking is common in The Hague region. If you live in a paid-parking area, you can apply for a residents' parking permit. You will find more information on how to apply for such a permit on our website; this process differs per municipality.
