Testing available for people with coronavirus-like symptoms
How do you make an appointment for a test?

From 1 June anyone with coronavirus-like symptoms can get tested.
This will help us contain the spread of the virus and protect one another.

You can get tested if you have mild coronavirus-like symptoms
If you have cold-like symptoms, for example blocked/runny nose, sneezing, sore throat, cough, fever, or sudden loss of taste or smell, you can get tested for coronavirus.

Step 1: Make an appointment

To make an appointment to get tested at a location near you, call 0800 1202
Have your citizen service number (BSN) ready.
You can find your BSN on your passport, identity document, driving licence or payslip.

You'll hear a short recorded message, and then you'll be connected to an assistant.
The person you will speak to is not a doctor. They will not be able to give medical advice or answer medical questions.

Give your name, address, telephone number, email address and citizen service number.
The assistant will help you make an appointment.
You'll receive a text message and email confirming the appointment.

Stay at home until you go to the test location.

Step 2: Get tested

Come to the test location at the designated time.
Bring proof of identity and the message confirming your appointment.

Follow the instructions of staff.
A cotton swab will be used to collect mucus from your throat and nose.

The test is free of charge.

Step 3: The result

Go straight home after you've been tested. Do not leave your home until you have received the test result. You will be called and told the test result as soon as possible.

If your symptoms get worse...
Contact your doctor.

*If you belong to an at-risk group or are very ill – for instance, if you have a fever or are short of breath – contact your doctor, specialist or the out-of-hours GP service (huisartsenpost).
In the event of a life-threatening situation, always call 112.*
